

Sentences

Reference

A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought. When you write, you use sentences in many ways—to tell what you are thinking or feeling, to explain your ideas, and to ask questions.

Type of Sentences	What It Does
Interrogative ?	Asks a question; always ends with a question mark.

Every sentence has two main parts—the complete subject and the complete predicate. Both parts are necessary to write a complete sentence.

- The complete subject
- The complete predicate

Simple Subjects and Simple Predicates

Reference

The simple subject is the main word or words in the complete subject. It is the one word in the complete subject that is more important than the rest.

The simple predicate, or verb, is the main word or words in the complete predicate. In good writing, the simple predicate expresses actions clearly.
